$10,000 GIFT FROM SAILORS

Canadian naval ratings in Newfoundland have donated $10,000 out of their canteen funds to help in the campaign which is about to be launched against tuberculosis in Newfoundland. The gift is in appreciation of the many kindnesses received by the navy during their sojourn on the island during the war years.

Tuberculosis is one of the big health problems in Newfoundland. There are from 500 to 600 deaths a year from this disease, and the incidence is estimated to be some 4% of the population.

BRITAIN SUPPLYING FRANCE WITH FOOD AND BOOKS

The basis of an agreement with the French government, Britain is supplying the French population with 50,000 tons of sugar and 10,000 tons of fat. Permission has also been given for the export of books to France and the French government have already set aside an estimated figure of $443,000 for this purpose. As there is a great demand in other liberated countries for British books, permission for the export of books to these countries from Britain has also been granted.

ALLOW BAZAAR SALE OF RATIONED GOODS

Baked hams, chief attraction of the home cooking stall at many a charity bazaar and sale of war, can still be sold if permission is received from the ration board. There are, however, no special facilities whereby donors of hams to churches or organizations can obtain supplies of rationed commodities without coupons. Ration coupons must be surrendered in the usual manner at the time of purchase, the Prices Board explains.

CLOTHING DRIVE SUCCESSFUL

Over seven million pounds of good serviceable clothing, resulting from the present national clothing collection drive, have already been received at over two thousand depots throughout Canada, or have been packed and baled in central warehouses for shipment overseas. From all over Canada useful articles streamed in to the collection centres.

New Brunswick has reported 250,000 pounds and more to come; Alberta 307,000; Saskatchewan 307,000; Prince Edward Island 50,000; Nova Scotia 142,00; the Yukon Territories 4,000, and British Columbia away over the top with one million pounds.

Scores of communities have doubled and trebled their original quotas. If every community can double its objective, Canada will have done a job to be more than proud of. It will, in the words of W. M. Barks, national chairman, be the greatest humanitarian expression our Dominion has ever enjoyed.

WELL KNOWN LOCAL CITIZEN PASSES

Death claimed another of Blairmore's well known and highly respected citizens on Thursday morning in the person of Alexander Seymour May, at the age of 59 years.

Coming to Blairmore about thirty years ago, Mr. May had been in the employ of the West Canadian Collieries at the Greenhill mine prior to which he worked for the company at Lillooet. In 1915 he enlisted for service in World War I. with the 102nd Battalion and went overseas, where he saw service in France. In 1918 he received his discharge and returned home.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred May; one son, Allan, in the RCAF, and two daughters, Iris and Jewel, now attending school in Idaho.

Decased was a past master of the Masonic order, and the funeral on Monday next, at 2 p.m., will be under Masonic auspices.

Service will be conducted at Central United church, of which he was a member of the church board, and the remains will be laid to rest in the Blairmore cemetery, Rev. J. McElvie officiating.

Mr. Albert May, brother, and Mrs. May came up from Medicine Hat and were present when the end came. We understand that the son and daughter will also be here for the last rites.

With the bereaved ones general sympathy is extended.

FELLOWSHIP IN THE CHURCH

Memory Selection: Be tenderly affectionated one to another; in honor preferring one another. Romans 12:10.

Lesson: Matthew 18: 15-20; Acts 2: 41-47; 1 Peter 4: 10; Philippians 1:27-24; 1 John 3:14-24.

Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 14:10.

The Text Explained With Comments

There Are Various Gifts Among Church Members, Romans 12:3-8. There are all kinds of people in a church, and one has to be careful thinking too highly of his own gift. He must judge himself soberly in relation to other people, to each of whom God has given a gift.

The normal eye can not see in ultra-violet light, he explained in an address to the Optical Society of America.

The lens of the human eye contains yellow coloring matter which excludes ultra-violet light and which becomes ultra-violet as age advances.

Prof. George Waldo, of the Harvard biological laboratories, said:

The normal eye can not see in ultra-violet light, he explained in an address to the Optical Society of America.

The lens of the human eye contains yellow coloring matter which excludes ultra-violet light and which becomes ultra-violet as age advances.

Prof. Waldo said that older people may even have difficulty in seeing ordinary violet light.

But with removal of the lens by cataract operation, sensitiveness to violet light is increased 1,000 times and the eye can perceive violet light which others can not.

The eye is a delicate organ.

Dr. Waldo said when the lens is removed in a cataract operation, ultra-violet light can penetrate the sensitive retina.

The result is a great loss of vision.

Dr. Gaynor, who is an eye and the lens of the other in a laboratory explosion some years ago, returned to his experiments and found that he could see ultra-violet parts of the spectrum which previously had been invisible to him.

Often For The Best

Frankness In International Conference Is Very Good Thing

Everybody dislikes secret diplomacy and wants open covenants openly arrived at. But when we get a group of Foreign Ministers openly disagreeing with each other to the extent of actually calling names, people don't like it and express alarm. In the longer view, isn't it a wonderfully hopeful thing for the future international life that the London Conference has been such a frank affair? Instead of the too familiar agreement "in principle", which disagrees in every important detail, the Foreign Ministers in London openly disagreed in principle. It is never too early to hasten the advent of One World, is, obviously, to get the nations to discuss and settle world problems the way the individual nations debate their domestic problems. When you have a couple of Foreign Ministers talking to each other as diplomats to a Conservative in the House of Representatives or a Laborite to a Conservative in the House of Commons, you are beginning to shake off the bonds of a narrow nationalism.

As for secret diplomacy, it should at all times be based on the subject that are lacking both in charity and understanding. For instance, it is always taken for granted that when a conference of diplomats goes into secret session or a group of political leaders go into a huddle, they are plotting mischief against the public like a secret conference.

Actually, the diplomats and party leaders meet in secret to find a way out of a deadlock which has been precipitated by open debate. They meet behind closed doors to work out a compromise dictated by the public. They meet in a smoke-filled hotel room to nominate the inevitable compromise candidate.

And in any case what do it mean when people say that a successful international conference must be preceded by careful preparation? It sounds very much like "secret diplomacy."

Capacity To See

Ultra-Violet Vision Follows An Operation For Cataracts

Ultra-violet vision, a remarkable discovery by an American ophthalmologist, A. G. Gaynor, is possessed by persons who have been operated on for cataract and acquire the capacity to see in ultra-violet light, Prof. George Waldo, of the Harvard biological laboratories, said.

The normal eye can not see in ultra-violet light, he explained in an address to the Optical Society of America.

The lens of the human eye contains yellow coloring matter which excludes ultra-violet light and which becomes ultra-violet as age advances.

Prof. Waldo said that older people may even have difficulty in seeing ordinary violet light.

Armor Plated Cars

Hiller And Goering Cars On Display
In United States

The personal automobiles of Hitler and Goering rolled through Washington in a frantic race on their way to the White House in the victory loan in the United States.

The two armor-plated Mercedes-Benz machines attracted considerable attention when they were unloaded in New York. Goering's low, sleek Mercedes coupe was the most talked about, little difference, but Hitler's 19-foot-long job car gave workers an afternoon's work of jacking and towing.

Bullet-proof glass on Goering's car is an inch thick. Hitler's windows are 2 1/2 inches thick—presumably because he was twice as important as Goering.

Hiller's car is six feet high and seven feet wide. Goering's five feet high and six feet wide—not allowing for the fact that Goering is twice as wide as Hitler was.

Air Ambulance

Has Been Inaugurated For Medical Emergencies in Saskatchewan

Air ambulance service to provide rapid transportation in emergencies and also to overcome transportation difficulties, especially in winter, will be inaugurated by the Saskatchewan Department of Public Health, Hon. H. C. Douglas, premier and minister of public health, announced. The province has been divided into two sections and service in the area north of Prince Albert will start at once, the Premier said. Service for the southern section will be started on December 1. Service will be confined to Saskatchewan. The Department of Public Health has acquired one Norseman aircraft, which is being conditioned for the southern part of the Province. Aircraft now operated by the Department of Natural Resources will be used.

Designed for medical emergencies, the ambulance service is intended to provide transportation for the sick in air transport is the only practical method for getting the necessary medical attention to the patient in the shortest possible time. All care for transportation in medical emergencies must be made to the director of the Medical Services Division in the health department. Flights will be made only when the request is received from a physician in a regular hospital or a nursing home.

Millions of Tons Of Materials Yielded
In Man's Atomic Project

Millions of tons in construction and in raw materials went into the atomic bomb plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., but what came out was measurable in handfuls.

Vest pockets sometimes could carry out the products of what was probably the greatest scientific job in history. Brief cases in the early days were regular vehicles for transporting things that promised to change the course of civilization.

Later on the products reached the stage of an occasional ton, that was on the way to the market.

Early in the project, chemists and physicists had to work with materials measured in millions of a gram—far less than the weight of a human breath.

After a time they got up to thousands of a gram—enough to make a bomb.

Then came the ton, that is, some people will end up in the hospital with a great deal of trouble.

The probabilities are for a considerable period the influence of the Big Three—Britain, the United States and Russia—will control the situation, pending the emergence of China, which is the logical successor, but it will be long before she could assume the crown, for she is terribly weak in all categories except one—magnificent spirit which enabled her to hang on in the face of the Jap onslaught.

These ray materials had to travel fast, for they usually lose their rays in days or weeks, and some last only a few hours.

When brief cases carried important shipments, officers usually were the ones to handle them, as they were uniform and sometimes not, still other shipments were carried by two-man teams, riding in a Pullman compartment.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

MEET SERGEANT BAKER

By VINCENT D. LUNNY
Copyright—
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

Eunice Morgan was upstairs getting dressed. Carefully with deliberate movements she selected her clothes—the ones that best suited her trim figure.

She hummed a soft, lilting tune and her steps across the room from clothes closet to dressing table to the full-length mirror on the wall opposite the window, were buoyant as though she were walking on clouds.

Eunice Morgan was happy; very, very happy. And the inherent gaiety was reflected in every one of her pert movements.

Her brother was coming home on weekend leave. For this was due a few minutes and, according to his last letter which lay beside the beauty kit on her bureau, he was bringing Sergeant Phil Baker with him.

Eunice was in love with Sergeant Baker; that is a girl can be in love with a person she has never met. As she lay in bed that night, she felt a strange tingling of anticipation rising up and down her spine and she analyzed the deep feeling of excitement as love.

What would Sergeant Baker be like? He'd be tall and dark and he'd have the kind of hair that she wanted her children to have—she was sure of it. She fastened an "unmentionable" around the sleek curve of her body.

But what if he's short and fat and hasn't any hair at all? And what if he's not married, she decided, reading the printed name in bold print on Sergeant Baker's letters to her from the camp. No, it wouldn't matter at all. After all personality and compatibility count more than looks, she told herself.

In the last six months or more practically every letter from the man named Baker has been accompanied by some reference to "Sergeant Baker" in the orderly room is a good egg. We have lots of fun together" or "Went for a walk with Phil Baker last night. It was better than just hanging around the camp."

Faintly she could hear the comments in her mind a mental picture of the Sergeant's personality and, because Bill liked him, she liked him too. That was in the beginning but now that she was going to meet Phil Baker this very evening she felt Cupid's little arrows hitting her heart, playing strange tricks deep in her secret being.

She had cancelled a date for tonight with her regular boy friend, brawny Tom Williams, after she had arranged a party for Baker and her brother. She was going to surprise them.

She'd reserved a table for four on the Roof Gardens where they could eat and dance and chase the hours away and she'd got a date for Bill to complete the foursome.

Tom Williams was miffed, of course, but he was going to be there.

He'd sounded annoyed when she had phoned to say that she couldn't keep the date with him because Bill was coming in on leave.

"You know it is, Tom," she'd said. "My big brother doesn't get leave very often and I so much want to spend time with him."

"That's fine, he'd said. "But couldn't we arrange to go out somewhere all together?"

She'd hesitated. "No—no—I... I don't think so, Tom. Not this time, I think it's in mind."

"But I do want to," he'd detected her hesitation. His voice had risen and a note of anger had crept into it. "We have a date. That's definite."

"I should... if she'd worn the bill that came with it, you wouldn't 'a' seen the steetle," he'd said.

"That was a beautiful hat, Pat, your wife wore to church last Sunday. It was so high I could hardly see the pulpit above it."

"It should... if she'd worn the bill that came with it, you wouldn't 'a' seen the steetle," he'd said.

"Well, if you want to put it that way, there is," she'd replied. "I'm going out with Sergeant Baker, a friend of Bill's who's coming in with him."

"... but you can't do that..."

"Oh, can't I?" she'd replied flippantly. "I can and I'm going to Good-bye for now, Tom."

Eunice remembered the conversation as she pulled her best dress over her shoulders. Oh, well, she could make out to him that it was a birthday and to think she would have a grand time with Sergeant Baker.

She heard the front door open as she dabbed perfume behind her ears and rubbed the last few drops into her eyebrows. Then she was a clanger of voices in the hall downstairs as Bill and the sergeant were greeted by other members of the family.

She brushed back a few unruly wisps of hair, looked at herself proudly in the mirror and, with heart beating fast and faster, she descended the stairs.

Bill met her at the foot of the staircase, neat as a button in his walking out uniform; with the new corporal's chevrons on his sleeves.

"Hi, Eunice," he greeted her enthusiastically, placing his hand on her shoulder. "I'm getting her face up for you with plenty of make-up. She'll be here in a few minutes."

"All set for a bit late tonight, Sis?"

"Polly Marshall! But... but..."

"No, buts now. You sound like Tom Williams. Come on take me to the Roof Gardens, Eunice. I've got a date for you with plenty Marshall. She'll be here in a few minutes."

"Polly Marshall? But... but..."

Many Good Openings

Available in Smaller Towns For Dentists Leaving War Service. Dentists attached to the Canadian armed forces are reported to be facing a retirement plan. They are leaving out of the service to find the field somewhat crowded in the cities, and openings existing only in the smaller towns.

This is not entirely to be regretted. It is likely to lead to a movement that will be to the advantage of both the dentist and the patient in the situation. It is no hardship to live in a small town. In fact, there is much in such places to make life worth while. A man with a good profession can really make a success of it there, and his wife will be equally popular and attractive, for he will find himself a prominent citizen, looked up to and respected. Added to this will be the service he can render people who, too often in the past, have been denied the best in treatment because of the lure of the metropolitan field. —Windsor Star.

SMILE AWHILE

Jones: "I hear you bought a car cheap the other day. How are you getting on with it?"

Smith: "I'm just realizing how hard it is to drive a bargain."

Sister's Sister: "Johnny, I like to tell you, but had night at the party your sister promised to become my wife. Can you forgive me for taking her away?"

Johnny: "Shucks, that's what the party was for."

"That was a beautiful hat, Pat, your wife wore to church last Sunday. It was so high I could hardly see the pulpit above it."

"It should... if she'd worn the bill that came with it, you wouldn't 'a' seen the steetle," he'd said.

"Well, if you want to put it that way, there is," she'd replied. "I'm going out with Sergeant Baker, a friend of Bill's who's coming in with him."

"... but you can't do that..."

"Oh, can't I?" she'd replied flippantly. "I can and I'm going to Good-bye for now, Tom."

Eunice remembered the conversation as she pulled her best dress over her shoulders and rubbed the last few drops into her eyebrows. Then she was a clanger of voices in the hall downstairs as Bill and the sergeant were greeted by other members of the family.

Fur-Bearing Sheep

Technique For The Treatment Of Sheep Fats

Australian sheep may soon produce "fur" for coats and trimming. Victorian Minister for Agriculture Norman Martin has announced a new technique for treating sheep pelts to make them into fur resembling beaver.

He explained that pelts with only hair to one and a half inches of wool, for which the farmer usually received between 10 and six pennies (1c to 8c), could be made into valuable fur pelts for trimming, and could wear better than ordinary fur. They were not yet on the market, but the pioneers of the new process in Victoria were far in advance of American furriers.

One of the leading manufacturers had gone abroad to secure machinery, and he estimated that with the employment of 1,000 workers, only five per cent need be trained. Mr. Martin also forecast making carpet rugs and handbags from sheepskin—Australian News Letter.

BREAKFAST SUGGESTIONS

"Bigger breakfasts—better lunches" will be the nutrition theme song for the coming winter. Too many people have acquired the habit of eating on the run lately because of so little time. With even more hours of strenuous work in the fitting, how about everyone's made hearty meals with which to start out the day. It's a good health investment.

An ideal cold weather breakfast includes a hot cereal. Occasionally, hot muesli on raisins will be a variation from the usual cooked cereals. It's a good idea to have a cereal in no time at all. The addition of cooked fruit make it a special treat.

Ruks, as well as other foods, contain an abundance of calories or heat units, and they rank high among suppliers of food-energy. Fortunately, they're inexpensive and always available.

Either whole fruit or fruit juice should be included in the breakfast menu. Oranges, and grapefruit contain vitamin C and other fruits contain vitamins other than C. Muesli, which are essential to a well-rounded diet. Eggs in some form should be served four times a week if possible. Other times pancakes, sweet rolls, toasts and bacon or sausages complete the meal.

Many housewives find that a few minutes time, at the beginning of each week, devoted to planning menus for the entire seven days, saves time and makes for better nutritional efficiency. You, as homemakers, play one of the most important roles as the custodian of your family's health. You're responsible for keeping the family on the job every day, so be sure to see that they are properly fed.

From a single Douglas fir, lumber can be obtained for four small bungalows.

If you've got wanderlust in your system but the pocketbook whispers "can't be done," R.C.A.F. Sgt. and Mrs. Johnnie Allen, Toronto, can give you a few tips. They made a trip to the Americas and back in 13 days and 16 countries, cost them $1,000. The men thumbed all the way. Allen, who was stationed at Aylmer, Ont., and his wife just got out on the highway. They stuck up their thumbs and six days later they were visiting friends in California. They came back the same way, making the return trip in seven days. Truck and bus drivers are really gentlemen on the road, the Allens feel. "The longest wait we ever had for a lift was less than two hours," says Allen. "The drivers were friendly—yes, when we set out for Los Angeles, so although not intended as such it turned out to be their honeymoon trip." Allen is now at the University of Toronto completing the education interrupted by the war.

Radio Industry

Britain To Undertake Important Expansion In Research

Plans for the United Kingdom radio industry to undertake large-scale development work for the services was announced on October 5th by Air Vice Marshal Tait, Director General of Signals at the United Kingdom Air Ministry.

The step is to an important expansion in radio research—an expansion which will also benefit the industry's civilian customers, since the new development and advances can be incorporated in the commercial radio products.

Apart from the fact that there is a lack of actual production of radio equipment, Britain's ability to produce the most modern equipment, incorporating all the latest technical devices, will give the industry a leading place in overseas markets, says Air Vice Marshal Tait. Export opportunities in the field of television and radio will be especially great.

DANES TACKLE UNEMPLOYMENT

Denmark is finding a cure to unemployment. Today, in spite of the difficulties of getting coal for industries and transportation for farm exports, fifty per cent of the Danish communities have no unemployed. And fifty thousand farmers have asked for extra help for 1945-46. In 1939 thirty per cent of all workers were normally unemployed.

The story behind this goes back to before the war when Thorvald Stauning, Denmark's labor prime minister, was visited by Supreme Court lawyer Valdemar Hvistid. He suggested the prime minister get together some of the leading men to tackle the unemployment question.

Stauning looked at the list of men. "If you can get these men to tackle anything together," he said, "you have done more than I have ever been able to do."

The conference met and an association was formed called L.A.B. (Landforeningen til Arbejdsskedsdelen Bekæmpelse). Hvistid was elected president of the association.

"The answer to no work is work," said Hvistid, "and it is everybody's responsibility to find work for others. Our only wealth is our people and the work of our people. Unemployment is not just a technical and economic problem, but above all a moral problem. It depends on our will and courage, our imagination and unselfishness. Let's get to work."

They did. First the big unemployment monster was chopped into small parts. Local committees were formed and it was made a home town project to see what could be done. In most communities L.A.B. found ready response because of the preparatory work enlisting local citizens to take civic responsibility which had been done by Moral Re-Armament, of which Hvistid was a national leader.

What happened in one town was typical.

The leading industrialist got interested. "But," he said, "we would need the mayor's co-operation, and everybody knows that the mayor and I are not on speaking terms. I would hate to block the way for this project, so tell me my name off."

Next day he called up: "I've been thinking all night about it. This is bigger than our squabbles, so I am going to offer my services to the mayor." He published a letter in the local paper that was an apology. His action started things going and local community projects sprang up all over the town.

All through the war years L.A.B., seemingly occupied with "unpolitical" activities, built up a network of patriots.

In 1943 Hvistid and his associates in L.A.B. ignored the Iron fist of the Nazi occupiers and turned to prepare Denmark to meet the huge unemployment expected after the war. The L.A.B. agents in this "preparation campaign" were mostly former officers from the disbanded Danish army. They personally visited every landowner in the country. A hundred thousand farmers in thirteen hundred villages were asked what jobs were waiting to be done on their farms and how many extra men they could employ after the war.

As a result the labor department got a detailed picture of the work possibilities in farm communities unparalleled in any country. They knew every roof that leaked, every field that needed drainage, every barnyard repair job. And even more important, every farmer in Denmark found himself taking a personal interest in finding work for at least one more fellow Dane. Fifty thousand men found work in this way. A leading newspaper commented, "The three letters L.A.B. will in years to come mean work for many idle hands."

That this development is receiving world-wide attention is evident from the following comment by George Light, chairman, National Trade Union Club, London, England:

"I have known this scheme since its inception. The co-operation shown by people in all parts of the country has been remarkable. Much has been done, much more remains to be done. The ghastly tragedy of unemployment is everybody's responsibility in the country. To try to avoid it is playing a coward's part. We must drive poverty from our midst. This is one practical way of doing it."

Jack: "Have you seen one of those instruments that can tell when a man is lying?"

Joe: "See one? Why, I married one."

"Boy, I'm scared! I just got a letter from a man telling me if I didn't stay away from his daughter he'd shoot me."

"Well, all you have to do is to stay away from his daughter."

"Yeah, but he didn't sign his name."

FARMERS' BULLETIN

FARM MACHINERY OFF RATION LIST

All rationing controls have been removed from sales of farm machinery, and restrictions on the production or importation of such machinery have been lifted.

Price controls remain. Generally, maximum price for farm implements is the price of which such items sold during the basic period, August 15—September 11, 1941. Quoted prices do not include cost of delivery to the purchaser.

Under Consumers' Credit Order No. 225, section 10, terms of sale for farm machinery are: 1/3 of quoted price paid in cash; the balance of the credit price to be paid within two years of the date of the contract in stated amounts at specified dates. Any allowance for a trade-in is to be deducted from the unpaid balance.

Despite the lifting of production restrictions, it is expected that the shortage of components such as malleable castings and sheet steel will limit the maximum output of farm implements during the year July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1946, to a 24% increase (on tonnage basis) over the output in the preceding 12 months.

Farmers' Poultry Prices

Farmers selling all types of poultry, except turkey, direct to consumers are permitted a 25% markup over the wholesale ceiling prices established for the zone in which they are located. Turkey producers are allowed a 20% markup over the wholesale level.

Potato Storage Allowance

(Order A-1560 now in effect)

A storage allowance of 5¢ per 75-lb. bag of potatoes, and 7¢ per 100-lb. bag is allowed on November 1. Another 5¢ per 75-lb. bag and 6¢ per 100-lb. bag may be added. Delivery and handling 5¢ per 75-lb. bag and 7¢ per 100-lb. bag on January 1, 1946. There will be no storage allowance for February but monthly increases will be resumed on March 1.

FARMERS' RATION COUPONS

Coupons covering farmer sales or farm household consumption of meat and butter, and sales of preserves must be forwarded to Local Ration Boards in primary producers' envelopes (RB-61). Reports for November should reach the local Ration Boards not later than December 10.

Following are the valid coupon dates for November:

	MEAT	BUTTER	SUGAR	PRESERVES
November 1.....	M 9	128
" 8.....	M 10
" 15.....	M 11	129	66, 67	P 20, 21
" 22.....	M 12	130
" 29.....	M 13	131

Farmers are required to send in "M" coupons to the Local Ration Board for meat they consume, and meat they sell to farmer neighbours at the rate of 4 lbs. per coupon. Farmers who slaughter meat need not turn in at the end of the month more than half the valid meat coupons in the ration books of their household. Farmers who purchase meat from other farmers must surrender to the selling farmer one meat coupon for every 4 lbs. of meat purchased, even if this means surrendering coupons not yet valid.

FARM SLAUGHTERERS

Farmers who slaughter for their own household consumption or for the consumption of their farmer neighbours, are not required to hold a slaughter permit. Any excess of farm slaughtered meat over the farmer's or his neighbour's needs may be sold only to the holder of a regular slaughter permit in quantities not less than a quarter of Beef or a side of Pork, Sheep, lamb or calves slaughtered by the farmer for his own or his neighbour's use may not be sold into the meat trade.

Licensed slaughterer's quota for cattle have been temporarily suspended and until further notice a licensed slaughterer may slaughter all the cattle needed for his requirements.

Rationing

is your assurance of a fair share.
is a protection against waste...shortages...inflation.

That is why farmers are asked to continue to collect and turn in coupons to their Local Ration Boards—once a month—in the RB-61 envelope.

COST OF LIVING IN POLAND

Money is not real wealth, although many people seem to think so. The experiences of Greece, China, Poland and many other unfortunate countries demonstrates the truth of that statement. All of them have a superabundance of money and little real wealth.

In Poland today costs in good Canadian money are as follows:

Meal	$60
Hotel room	50
Package of cigarettes	20
Cheap cotton dress	26
Coffee, pound	25
Bread, loaf	16
Gasoline, gallon	48
Beer, bottle	8

All monetary theories are based on the supposition that the value of money remains constant, but such is never the case. The real wealth lies in all the various commodities and articles which humanity wants and needs. If they are in abundance, so that all or most of the people can have their desires satisfied, money remains valuable. But when stark scarcity intervenes, money has a habit of losing its value in an amazing manner.

A Sound Banking System

UNDER OUR PRESENT economic system, banks are closely associated with the industrial and financial life of a nation, and they have power and responsibilities, which if wisely used, may contribute much toward national welfare. In the early days of the Japanese invasion of Manchuria, the banks had been used as instruments of the military clique there, and their policies had not been to the best interests of the Japanese people. The banks of all nations have been affected by the chaotic world conditions which resulted from the war, and they face further difficult problems during the reconstruction period. It has already been seen that it will be some time before normal conditions of production are again established, and international trade and finance are restored to peacetime levels, especially in those countries whose industries and resources were destroyed during the war. Banks will no doubt have a large share in the great task of world reconstruction which is now commencing.

An Unusually Strong System

Canada is fortunate in having a banking system which is considered to be among the most efficient and dependable in the world. In a recent article on this subject, published by the Royal Bank of Canada, a number of interesting facts are discussed. The powers and business of our banks are clearly defined in the Bank Act, passed originally in 1871, but subject to revision every ten years by a committee of the House of Commons. Changes may also be made between revisions, making our banking system a product of evolution and still pliable, rather than a creation of lawyers and statesmen arrived at once, and fixed for all time. There are no chartered banks under the Bank Act and only they, and two other established savings banks in addition to the Bank of Canada, are entitled to call themselves "banks" and to use the word "banking" to describe their business. These Canadian banks have saved of over one billion dollars each and our banking system was recently described by Finance Minister J. L. Ilsey, as one of national strength.

Heavy Demands On Services

staff, since a high percentage of the pre-war male staff under forty-five were in the armed forces. They were replaced by young women, but this decrease in experienced staff came at a time when there was a greatly increased demand for banking services. The complicated machinery for the floating of the various war loans was put in motion with the help of the banks. In addition they sell war savings stamps and war savings certificates without remuneration, and perform many other services for the government in connection with rationing, providing for the requirements of the armed forces and numerous other matters. They are now taking part in the task of re-establishing returning service men in the best way possible. Canada is fortunate to have such a sound and well organized banking system during the critical times through which we are passing.

Vadney quickly placed a $5 bill into the hand of the uniformed doorman and got out of the cab. Weeks later, when Vadney returned to the Plaza, the desk clerk told him an envelope, with a $5 bill in it, was being held for the playwright. "But that was for the uniformed doorman," said Vadney. Artificial Kidney

Dutch Scientists Invent Appliance For Purifying The Blood

An artificial kidney, pumps toxic blood from the human body, purifies it and then puts it back again. It was invented by Dutch scientists during the war, according to two Dutch physicians.

Dr. J. L. Verschueren and Dr. A. C. Lippe, Nijmegen, internal medicine specialists, told a press conference in New York about the discoveries. They said the Netherlands government had appointed them to study American medical developments and report on achievements by Dutch physicians.

A warm water cylinder surrounded by yards of cellulose tubing comprise the artificial kidney, the physicians said. Blood from the patient is pumped into the tubing and the water cylinder revolves. Through this process the toxic elements in the blood pass into the water and the blood is returned to the body. The process can go on for more than 10 hours.

Jet-Propelled Airplanes Exceed Speeds Of Over 500 Miles Per Hour

The Gloster Meteor, jet-propelled airplane is the "fastest, hard-hitting airplane in full quantity production in the world." British aircraft designer, Sir Frank Whittle, told in an interview at Toronto. It would remain so for two or three years.

Dowling, who has made two jet planes ready for an attempt at a world speed record at Herne Bay, England, arrived in Toronto recently from Sir Alan Cobham of the British Siddeley Co. which will take over the plant of Victory Aircraft, Ltd., at nearby Malton.

Answer to Last Week's Puzzle

Money Well Spent

Appeal Is Made To The Public To Buy Christmas Seals

For the next few weeks the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated agencies throughout the Dominion will be appealing to the public to buy Christmas Seals so that the greatly important preventative work in the field of T.B. can be carried on for another year.

Neither this newspaper, nor the Canadian Tuberculosis Association nor any one of the organizations it represents, wants anything to happen to this campaign with the knowledge of where its contributions are going. Let us, then, be very realistic for a moment.

The sale of these seals provides a great deal of the money with which to carry out preventative T.B. work in Canada. The Canadian Tuberculosis Association has purchased all x-ray equipment for both mobile and mobile clinics (where chest examinations are available free of charge), paid for many surveys, and sponsored the vitally necessary health education programs in homes, schools, offices and industrial plants. In other words, what these seals actually make possible is a broad programme of suppression of a disease which, if left unchecked, would be capable of killing off our population in a matter of a few years.

The profit from seal sales is not used for curative work—that is carried out by public authorities through its sanatoria—but is used to unearth the existence of the disease and so make cures not only easier but more speedily.

From an even more realistic point of view, it might be explained that, based on accurate statistics, it costs nine times as much to cure a patient suffering from T.B. as it does to prevent the disease in the first place. That makes the adage "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" seem very, very sensible, indeed.

When we buy Christmas Seals and everyone should—consider that we are at the same time helping ourselves and our own loved ones. T.B. is a disease that did not strike without warning, and anyone of us, regardless of our station in life, could be a victim. If, through our individual purchases of Christmas Seals, we are safeguarding those near and dear to us, doesn't that sound like a good reason?

Consider these factors when your seals arrive. Sit down and make out a cheque, a generous one this time, and thank heaven the job of controlling and destroying this monstrous germ is in good hands.

CWAC BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

It was the day my chum and I were to leave for the front, and with the help of binoculars we were able to see the German gun emplacements on the coast of Calais. All of a sudden a shell warning went, and word went out that all men, women and children were to get into a bomb shelter. The Major's place was to the next shelter. I was afraid we pretended we didn't hear it, as we wanted to see what was going on. It was quite exciting. Just to give some idea of the cost of food over there, Cpl. Clark quoted a few prices: bacon, 25c; ham, 25c; bread and butter, $2.50 for half a pound. Cpl. Clark returned to Canada in Sept., 1945. "I am certainly looking forward to going back for a visit some day," said Cpl. Clark. "I was at present working in Central Registry, M.D. 12 District Headquarters.

ALL LOCKED UP

It was a sorry day for customers of a Chinese laundry in Toronto when the proprietor was sent to jail for a year on a narcotics charge and took the keys to the laundry with him. The Chinese laundry, their laundry is locked inside the C.W.A.C. recreation hall at Alderhot. WEDDING BELLS

The first wedding to take place in England between members of the C.W.A.C. and the R.N.Z.A.F. was solemnized when Pte. Catherine Dzucynski, C.W.A.C. of Landis, Sask., became the bride of Fit. Sgt. Mark S. Sime, R.N.Z.A.F. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Arthur, in St. Patrick's Church, North Camp, Alderhot. The bride was given in marriage by her step-brother, Cpl. J. Gartner, S.S.F.C., and attended by Pte. E. McDowell, C.W.A.C. of Landis. The best man was Fit. Sgt. W. P. Fletcher, R.N.Z.A.F., of Auckland, New Zealand. The reception was held in the C.W.A.C. recreation hall at Alderhot.

MEET A CWAC

Cpl. H. M. Clark, daughter of Mrs. Mary Clark, of Athabasca, Alta., has recently returned from overseas, after being there nearly three years. Joining the Canadian Women's Army Corps in October, 1941, Cpl. Clark was posted to 120th Training Centre, where she remained until going overseas with the rest of C.W.A.C. to Scotland in 1942.

"It was quite a thrill disembarking somewhere in Scotland on Guy Fawkes Day (Nov. 5) to the strains of tunes such as 'It's a Long Way to Tipperary', 'Pack Up Your Troubles', and many others," said Cpl. Clark. "The things that really seemed to catch our attention were the train whistles, quite different to the ones we were used to back home, and the queer chimney pots."

Posted to Discipline Section (A Branch), London, Cpl. Clark explained that it involved a great deal of road accidents, injuries, investigations, medical boards, etc. She later worked in the Military Secretary Section, dealing with all matters pertaining to officer personnel. "One of my most interesting days," recalled Cpl. Clark, "was the day my chum and I were sent to see the German gun emplacements on the coast of Calais.

Don't put your Coat on yet... the Job's Not Finished

HE'S BACK . . .

As a fighting man he did more for us than we can ever hope to repay. Yet all he asks in return is a fair chance to find and fill the right civilian job.

The least we can do is to see that he gets this help . . . see that every young veteran is fitted for the future through the Government's Rehabilitation Programme.

Under this programme returned men and women are trained, equipped and directed into farming, factories, business or professions according to their ambition and ability. Some need hospitalization, some pensions—all get gratuities and re-establishment credits.

It's going to take a lot of money to carry to completion such a vital and comprehensive plan. Every Canadian will have to dig deep to raise the sum that's needed.

Now that the shooting and shouting are over, let's tell these fellows that we are still interested! Let's come through and make their training for the future our first and most important job!

GET BEHIND THE 9TH VICTORY LOAN . . .

A YOUNG MECHANIC who learned his trade under Post Discharge Re-establishment, and is now a skilled operator. The dollars you invest in the 9th Victory Loan will help others to become as happily re-established.

A DISABLED LAD is getting the best of care. Your 9th Victory Loan dollars will make it possible for all such cases to carry on until they can get back on their feet again. Everyone must help. It is the least we can do.

BY SUPPORTING THE 9TH VICTORY LOAN you help young veterans to take up their studies where they left off. Canada recognizes the need to give such returning men and women every opportunity to complete their education.

THE "VETERAN" FARMER was once a bomb aimer and he planted bombs for victory. What he sows today will add to the growth of Canada. You can help many young farmers like this by backing the 9th Victory Loan.

Miners Over The Top

There was a good deal of pessimism before the Victory Loan campaign opened over the response which would be accepted by the miners in the Crows Nest Pass field because of their opposition to the manner in which meat rationing is being administered. Many thought that the units in the Pass would not make a good showing.

And now we have Blairmore and Coleman going over the top before the tenth day to make the fourth and fifth units in southwestern Alberta to reach their objective.

So there was nothing to worry about after all. The fact is that the miners of southwestern Alberta are quite intelligent in their appreciation for the need for the Ninth Loan as evidenced by the record number of sons and daughters served in the armed forces and are now coming home to re-enter civil life. The Ninth Loan is required especially to provide the funds for re-establishment and to pave the way to a high post-war production. The miners appreciate that full employment for themselves can only come with full production which will be made possible by the help which the Ninth Victory Loan will give.

And now the Pass miners have shown that what can be done we will expand the work to be made of cleaning up the mess in other southwestern Alberta units. — Lethbridge Herald.
